Thank you in advance Macs that didn't make Big Sur's list but were on Catalina's included the mid- and late-year 2012 MacBook Pro, mid-2012 MacBook Air, mid-2012 and late-2013 iMac, and late-2012 Mac Mini machines.. My only fear is that my Mac could become slower at processing data and everyday use.. I wanted to ask if anybody has tried Mac OS Mojave on a 13' MacBook Pro Retina Late 2012.

I am currently using El Capitan and I'm thinking about updating the software, though I'm usually sceptic when it comes to major software updates.
